What is better than a rainy day in July?

There is a lot of cackling about the world's poultry commerce at Ottawa, and the chickens are not doing all of it.

A Toronto lady who discovered a man under her bed allowed him to escape after a struggle. What a disappointment after years of waiting and watching.

THE SPEED MESSAGE

The yearly toll of human lives due to automobile accidents is appalling. Every day claims its victims. Every day the finger of fate points out those who are selected to meet with a sudden, painful, and sometimes a shocking death.

The slaughter is relentless, cruel, and barbarous. It goes on from day to day, from year to year.
The grim reaper chooses his victims from people of all classes; from the rich and from the poor; from the ranks of slovenly and passionate youth, from the aged and feeble, and from the crowds of innocent, happy-faced children.

Who will be offered for the daily sacrifice is never known until the hand of death reaches out and clutches them.

On the head of the reckless or careless driver lies much of the responsibility for so many accidents. The thoughtless pedestrian, too, must share a part of the blame, but the man at the wheel must bear the greatest burden of guilt. The reckless driver takes too many chances. He either does not realize or does not care of the danger in which he places his own life and the lives of others. He makes a mistake, or something goes wrong, and there it is too late.

The authorities are beginning to awaken to the need of reducing the menace of the reckless driver. Many provisions and statutes are making out severe punishment to this type of offender. This is a step in the right direction. Human life must be protected from this new danger of a mechanical age.

A NEW SCALE OF FARM VALUES

Farmers in the Eastern Section of the Canadian Pacific Irrigation Block will welcome the proposed plan for the re-valuation of farm lands.

That the company will put a re-valuation scheme into effect has been announced by B. G. Porter, assistant general manager of the department of natural resources, and it is understood the operation of the plan will be got under way at once.

Under the old method of selling, all irrigable lands in the block were sold at a fixed figure. The new plan will take into consideration the productive value of the land, and it will be graded and priced on that basis. No reduction is to be made on the best lands in the block.

Present contract holders on land of poorer quality will be given a rebate according to the figures in the new scale of valuation.

This move is an important one, and should help solve the problems of the irrigation farmer. It should also aid in placing settlers on land not already occupied.

To the Cassin Board of Trade must be given some credit for bringing to the attention of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company the need for a re-valuation plan. This matter has received considerable time and attention by the Board, and was the subject of a delegation who interviewed C.P.R. officials in Calgary last winter. The delegation consisted of two members of the Board of Trade, and a practical farmer who operates an irrigated farm near Bassano.

While we do not go so far as to say the bringing into effect of a re-valuation scheme is the direct outcome of the visit of the delegation, we believe that in placing the situation before the company from the viewpoint of the farmer, it had some effect in influencing their decision to adopt a new system of land valuation in the irrigation block.

At any rate, the plan is now being worked out, and should make for greater agricultural progress in this part of the province.

THAT HORSE NAME

(from the Brooks Bulletin)
A peculiar bit of business has once again been pulled off in this district that does not altogether meet with the approval of farmers living here. We mean the round up and sale of horses that has just finished.

This round up was originally put on by the government, and the animals were advertised.

For the past few years, however, permits have been granted individuals to hold this roundup. The horses have been herded in, left in a bunch and later sold, without so much as a notice of sale being posted up. One year they were taken to Bassano, and this year they were taken to Alderson.

Just why all the secrecy and the reason why the horses are run to such an outlandish place for a sale is hard to understand.

Perhaps the minister of agriculture could throw a little light on this matter.

REWARD

There came one day to my garden
A beautiful butterfly,
So dainty, so free, and so fragile,
As if it had come from the sky.
It flitted about in the sunlight,
It paused, now here and now there,
But I to be just like the butterfly,
With never a care.

There came one day to my garden
A big, noisy hum-bum-bum,
Stealing the sweets from the trees
and the flowers,
As busy as he could be,
Humming his song as he hurried along.

Only a part of God's great plan,
But O! to be just like the hum-bum-bum,
With never a care.

But we must submit to the great will of God.

To the world, with its joy and its pain,
Be as I like the bee and the butterfly.
For butterflies are not in vain.
Though the road may be rough and the days seem long.

And we follow gladly off by the way,
We will find great reward in the Master's "well done."
It will come at the end of some day.

Cultural Wealth Revived

By all accounts the Canadian Folklore and Handicraft Festival held at the Chateau Frontenac, Quebec, under the auspices of the National Museum of Canada was an unqualified success. More than any previous event which had to do with French-Canadian folk music it has brought to public notice the rich heritage of native song in Canada. Not merely did the concert prove magnetic, but the general atmosphere of the festival brought forth something dormant, a wealth of national culture that has been buried under the oppressive weight of materialism.

Quebec during the three days of the festival was invaded by artists from all parts of Canada — celebrated singers from the large cities and the most humble, though not the least interesting, interpreters of the Canadian folksong from the outlying districts. The festival, looked upon as a whole, has brought forth artists and material never suspected. The celebrated men and women were applauded but those unknown quantities like the village songsters and dancers, and the Hurons of Lorelle, supplied that unusual atmosphere of novelty and attraction that characterized the festival.

Vincent Ferrier de Repentigny and the lumberjacks in their checked shirts and gray breeches. Belled with his homely clothes and his jaunty smile, the fisherman from Gaspé; Madame Leblond and her daughters with their spinning wheels and hooked rags; Napoleon Leblond from the Isle of Orleans with his long pipe carved by hand; the women from L'Assomption braiding the Canadian sash — almost a list of — and in contrast with these the superb singing of cultivated artists, Cécile Brault,

Juliette Gaudier, Jeanne Dussan, J. Campbell McInnes and Rodolphe Plamondon. Nothing more thoroughly Canadian can be imagined than the rolling songs of the lumberjacks and craftsmen of Quebec by Charles Marchand and his "Troupadours." And it looks as if the festival will become an annual event. At the close of the last concert in Quebec, it was announced that not only would the festival be held next year, but that E. W. Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, had offered $5,000 in prizes for compositions to be played at the 1925 festival. The compositions to be based on French-Canadian chansons and folk melodies, for which prizes are offered as follows:

- 1.—$1,000, divided into $750 and $250 as first and second prizes, for instruments, and not to last over 30 minutes.
- 2.—$1,000, divided into $750 and $250 as first and second prizes, for a cantata introducing French-Canadian chansons popular, the $750 to be divided: $500 for music and $250 for libretto; the $250 to be divided $150 for music and $100 for libretto.
- 3.—$500 for solo for string quartet, not to last over twenty minutes.
- 4.—$250 for group of arrangements of four chansons popular for male voices.
- 5.—$250 for group of arrangements of four chansons popular for mixed voices.

The last two (4 and 5) are confined to Canadian composers. The others are open to international competition. Judges and details will be announced as soon as possible, through the musical press.

NO FIXED SPEED LIMIT IN ALBERTA AUTO CLUB LEARNS

According to the statutes of the province, revised last session of the legislature, Alberta has no rigid speed limit for traffic on public highways. This has been cleaned from the regulations by Charles H. Grant, K.C., president of the Alberta Motor Association, in response to a request from the executives of the A.M.A. that complaints of motorists regarding arrests by the provincial police for driving in excess of 30 miles an hour, be investigated.

The paragraph in the Vehicles and Highways Traffic Act respecting a speed limit reads as follows:

"At a rate of speed which is unreasonable, having regard to all the circumstances of the case, including the nature, condition, and use of the highway and the amount of traffic which is then, or might reasonably be expected, on the highway."

There are, however, certain speed limits fixed beyond which the burden of proof that the speed was reasonable is upon the accused, i.e., if a motorist is charged with excessive speed, the crown only has to prove that the motorist was at certain places exceeding a certain speed, and if the motorist does not prove that the speed used was reasonable, having regard to the existing conditions, he will be convicted.

Those limit which are prima facie evidence of excessive speed are as follows:

1. Within a city, town, or village: (a) On the street with a clear vision and between intersections, 30 miles per hour; (b) in turning a corner, 20 miles per hour; (c) Approaching or at a street corner or curve where there is not a clear view of approaching traffic, 10 miles per hour.

2. On the highway: (a) On the straightaway, 30 miles per hour; (b) At or curves and corners as in 1, 12 miles per hour.

In addition to this municipalities may limit speed over bridges but must post a notice of such speed on the bridge.

"In my opinion therefore," says Mr. Grant in his report, "a person who is summoned for excessive speed, although exceeding the limits herein mentioned, may not be guilty

Honors Are Not Titles

Resolution Passed By Canadian Parliament Mandarinated By Some People

A Londoner, speaking at the Twelfth of July demonstration at the Albert Hall, referred to the honours bestowed upon Lindbergh in France, Great Britain and the United States, and said:

"If a Canadian citizen were to accomplish that same feat, through a resolution of the Canadian Government, he would not be honoured as these honours with the exception of one from his own Sovereign."

The speaker has misinterpreted the resolution passed by the Canadian Parliament. It virtually prohibits the conferring of titles on Canadians, but not such honours as were bestowed on Lindbergh in Europe and in his own country. Royal honours, civil and military, have been conferred regularly on Canadians since the video on titles. Has the speaker at Mitchell forgotten the stream of war decorations given almost Canadian soldiers?

The speaker charged further that the titles were banned "purely to weaken the ties between Canada and the British Empire." This is a gross misstatement. The titles were banned "purely to prevent the conferring of titles on Canadians, but not such honours as were bestowed on Lindbergh in Europe and in his own country. Royal honours, civil and military, have been conferred regularly on Canadians since the video on titles. Has the speaker at Mitchell forgotten the stream of war decorations given almost Canadian soldiers?"

Scientist Says Tarnish Can Be Prevented

Treatment in Process of Manufacture Is Effective

The tarnish that appears on silverware is one of the most serious problems facing the telephone industry. Hundreds of miles of underground cable, connecting large cities by telephone are rendered useless annually by the corrosion of the lead sheets covering them.

Mr. Burns said that the control of corrosion of underground cables is one of the most serious problems facing the telephone industry. Hundreds of miles of underground cable, connecting large cities by telephone are rendered useless annually by the corrosion of the lead sheets covering them.

Progress in methods of application and use of metal as coatings for iron and steel is greatly retarded by the annual loss of the nation caused by rust. Dr. William Blum of the Bureau of Standards, Washington, D.C., in his paper on the "Control of Corrosion."

"Rust is wasting wealth at the rate of hundreds of millions of dollars annually," he said. "Proper metallic coatings can prevent this waste largely, but it is beyond present hope to prevent all corrosion losses or to control conditions which corrode metals. Atmospheric exposure of metals is of course the most important of these. Fresh water, sea water, and dry air are the most common factors that result in excessive corrosion."

Atmosphere is one of the most desirable metals for coating. Dr. Blum said. When the base is subjected to marine exposure, and when atmospheric exposure is essential as in the manufacture of automobiles.

Work On the Interprovincial Boundary Line Between Alberta and British Columbia

The difference which has to be overcome by Government surveyors in the performance of their duties is seldom realized by the layman. During the last few years, the boundary line between Alberta and British Columbia has been greatly extended by the work of the surveyors.

Conflict Over Skirt Lengths

Movement Is Op In Europe To Introduce Longer Skirts

"While America has accepted with compliance current fashions in women's clothes both on the street and on the beaches, there seems to be some agitation in Europe as to the moral significance of skirt lengths and bathing suits," reads an editorial in The Outlook.

"Recently one faction of the Quakers Association in Germany declared that short skirts were a sign of moral degeneracy and began a campaign for long skirts." The Outlook editorial continues. "For some reason, it developed into a rural versus urban conflict, and the women of Berlin banded together in defense of prevailing fashions. On another front we find Italian women protesting against current brevities and carrying their campaign to a nationwide upon skirts but the shoe-fetters in the movement for dress reform have met with considerable success. In Bologna, women with short skirts are barred from the schools, while throughout Italy stricter regulations are in force for modesty on the beaches."

"But it is in Turkey that the most drastic movement is under way. Numerous Turkish women are supporting a campaign for a uniform dress for all women. Extravagance and feminine jealousy are the evils this movement is not only fighting but this would solve many problems, but we somehow doubt the success of the movement. Women will dress pretty much as they desire despite all attempts at reform or standardization, and we may safely leave even skirt lengths to the fashionists to their own sense of propriety."
